GENERAL NEWS.

Hundreds of People Drowned in Northern Mexico.

THE WHEAT CROP SHORTAGE

The Iowa Press Association Starts for Oregon O R & N Stockholders En Route to Portland Eastern News Items.

El Paso, Tex, June [illegible] Particulars of the [illegible] waterspout which [illegible] in the [illegible] were received here to-night. The loss of life proves greater than first reported. At [illegible] the rushing waters in a few minutes rose to the height of twenty five feet. This great flood swept everything before it, and at that place alone nearly 200 lives were lost. Great distress prevails along the entire valley and immediate relief is greatly needed. [illegible] from other points are [illegible] received.

The [illegible] was flooded by a tremendous waterspout which [illegible] ago. The waterspout burst at a point a mile above the city, and in a few moments a roaring torrent six feet high covered the very center of the city. A complimentary amateur performance in honor of the governor and ex President Manuel Gonzales was in progress at the theater at the time the waterspout burst. The building was crowded with the elite of the city when the alarm was sounded about half past 10 o'clock. A wild panic ensued in the theater. Ladies fainted and all seemed frenzied with fear. Everyone rushed for the door trampling the weak under foot. The scene was indescribable, and many persons were fatally injured. The force of the flood down the streets broke open many doors. The office of the Singer sewing machine company had six feet of water in it, and many other buildings suffered likewise. The damage is estimated at over $100,000. The principal sufferers are Obregan & Co, Lorenzo Marquise and the Singer sewing machine company. It is not yet known how many lives were lost.

DISASTROUS EFFECTS OF A WATERSPOUT.

Galveston June [illegible]—A special to the News from El Paso says: Yesterday a water spout burst in the mountains above [illegible] of Lagos Mexico near the dividing line between the states of Guanajuato and Jalisco. The effects were most deplorable. Immense quantities of water swept down the mountains with terrific force towards the well populated plains and valleys below and left desolation and ruin in their wake. There are already one hundred lives reported lost, and it is feared the list may swell still larger when all the details are known. A great many houses were swept away. St [illegible] have been taken in Lagos among wealthy manufacturing classes to alleviate the pressing wants of many who escaped from the valleys but lost everything.

DISASTROUS STORM IN WISCONSIN

Milwaukee June [illegible]—Special telegrams to the Sentinel indicate that the damage from yesterday's wind and hail storm which swept across the entire state from west to east was very serious and has resulted in great loss to farmers by damage to crops and fruit. In Vernon county the storm appears to have assumed the nature of a cyclone. All buildings in the little village of Victory were demolished, including two small warehouses, a church, hotel and school house. Across the Mississippi river in Minnesota the village of New Albin was almost totally wiped out of existence, occasioning a loss of $50,000. From various points in Wisconsin within the path of the storm come reports of buildings being unroofed, trees uprooted by wind and much damage by hail. In many places hail stones of remarkably large size fell to the depth of from six to [illegible] inches. Cattle and horses were badly bruised and many sheep and hogs were killed by hail. Considerable stock was also killed during the terrific thunder storm following the fall of hail. It is impossible to get satisfactory information regarding the loss, but it is known to have been great.

MINNEAPOLIS EXCITED OVER A WASTE OF WATER.

Minneapolis June 8 There is much excitement in the city this evening over the disclosure of a discovery made this afternoon that a volume of 40,000 gallons of water per minute is escaping from the water power of St. Anthony falls from an unknown source. The aldermen and the government engineer and city engineer have various theories regarding it, and the opinion is expressed by authorities that a new sewer being constructed above the falls is responsible for the water waste and there is a probability that work will be stopped thereon. Some theorists hold that the Hennepin county lakes are being drained through a subterranean channel, Minnetonka being [illegible] of the lakes in the basin. The government engineer however expresses no apprehension of danger to the falls by the escapage of water power. Owners, mill men and citizens generally are greatly agitated.

THE IRON WORKERS STRIKE

Pittsburg June 9—New developments in the iron strike to-day were all favorable to the strikers. Two more firms have signed the scale and the Sligo mills in this city which were started with non union men yesterday are idle to-day, the firm not being able to secure enough men to keep them in operation. The Etna mills which the owners confidently expected to have running non union this week are still closed down, but it is claimed will be in operation to-morrow. Additional signatures to the amalgamated scale were the Standard Iron and Nail Co of Clifton, West Virginia, employing 600 men, and the Reeves Iron Co of Canal Dover, Ohio, employing forty men. So far this week four firms have signed the scale and the strikers are greatly encouraged.

THE SILVER QUESTION

New York, June 9—[Special]—The Times says Senator Teller of Colorado has rendered the greatest service to Warner that he was capable of rendering. He has denounced that statesman's silver scheme as something silver mine owners do not want. According to the ex secretary of the interior what these gentlemen will insist upon is that coinage shall go on. Colorado's production this year he says will be $20,000,000 with a good chance that it will be more. When the people really understand that the silver law is simply intended to make a market for Colorado silver which is in reality exactly and solely what it was meant to do, and what it does, they will know how to deal with it.

THE WHEAT SHORTAGE

Columbus, Ohio, June 9—The state board of agriculture, from official and private dispatches received from the principal wheat states, estimates the probable shortage at 180,000,000 bushels, as compared with a five years average. Of this shortage 119,000,000 is found in six great winter wheat states—Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and California, which on a five years' average yield 208,000,000 bushels. As compared with last year the short crop is over [illegible],000,000 bushels.

Springfield Ill June 9—The June crop report issued to-day estimates that the yield of wheat in Illinois this year will be less than 10,000,000 bushels compared with 32,000,000 bushels last year.

FAREWELL BANQUET TO COX.

New York June 9—Hon S S Cox, new minister to Turkey, was banqueted at the Hoffman house to-night by over 200 distinguished citizens on the eve of his departure for his new mission. Cox responded in a light and humorous vein to the toast "our guest." "Glasgow, [illegible] in Turkish ministers" responded to "his imperial majesty." Mr Dorsheimer to the postal service, and Messrs Potter, Rev Dr W [illegible], Rooseve[lt], Colonel William F [illegible] [illegible] Waeller and others spoke.

THE IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Omaha June 9—The Iowa Press association 200 strong started from here at noon to-day on an excursion to the Pacific coast. For the next eighteen days they are guests of the Union Pacific, and will visit all points of interest in Nebraska, Wyoming, Oregon, Idaho and Washington territory, the trip terminating by a short steamer voyage on Puget sound. The party is in charge of J W Blackburn and Hoyt Sherman, Jr, of the Union Pacific passenger department.

LOGAN CALLS ON THE PRESIDENT

Washington June [illegible] [Special] Among the callers on the president to-day was Senator Logan. He simply called to pay his respects to the president. The meeting between them was very pleasant and nothing was said about politics. Logan's call was brief. After leaving the White house he called on Secretary Manning at the treasury department. While there Morrison of Illinois dropped in.

A DEMOCRATIC FIGHT ENDED

Chicago June 9—The president to-day appointed Frederick H Marsh [illegible] United States marshal for the northern district of Illinois. This ends a bitter fight. A certain element of the democratic party was urging a local appointment named McCarthy for the place and using very strong efforts in his behalf. Marsh is not a resident of this city and is very highly recommended.

LOGAN'S APPOINTMENT A MISTAKE

[illegible] June [illegible] [illegible] The removal of ex Senator Bruce to give [illegible] the registership of the treasury is regarded by thoughtful democrats in Washington as a bad mistake tending to destroy confidence among colored men in the assurances of friendship [illegible]

Miss Hoole [illegible] Reads a Paper on the Kindergarten Other Papers Discussed

Washington June 9 At to-day's session of the [illegible] [illegible] W P Fitch [illegible] of New York [illegible] committee on work among children [illegible] the report of the committee.

Mr W [illegible] Harris of Concord, Massachusetts, read a paper entitled Compulsory Education, in which statistics were cited voluminously. Compulsory education he held was a valuable means [illegible]. The common schools, the kindergarten and industrial art schools might furnish valuable preventive agencies against crime.

Miss [illegible] read a paper on kindergartens prepared for the conference by Mrs Sarah Cooper of California. It held that the power of early training and habit was not easily overestimated. The [illegible] habits were generally too small to be felt until they were too strong to be broken. The kindergarten is a system of training [illegible] to inculcate honest principles and build up genuine character. Character building in the kindergarten went forward by means of [illegible] in an atmosphere of happiness and contentment. The epochs of educational growth were as divinely ordained as the epochs of vegetable growth. The kindergarten had its root life itself. [illegible] life. The kindergarten was the best nourishment for the root life of the human plant. As early as 1848 France had 1,000 little children in infant schools, and to-day there are 4,000,000 in these same schools. As a result the French are the most artistic race in the world, and the world pays them an enormous tribute each year by purchasing their handiwork. The paper concludes with a description of the kindergarten schools of San Francisco.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session was devoted to further consideration of the subject of the morning and to several interesting papers. Among them was one on Dependent Young Children in Families and in Situations, prepared by Mrs Clara T Leonard of Massachusetts. The author, who is a member of the Massachusetts board of health, lunacy and charity, found that the safeguard thrown by society around the virtue of women would be weakened by any provisions which would relieve unmarried mothers from the penalties of their act, and the care of their offspring. She [illegible] the policy of separating unmarried mothers from their children as injurious to both the mothers and the children. The Hayes Saloon

Omaha June 2 Ex President Hayes has for many years owned a lot and building on Sixteenth street this city, and for several years his Omaha [illegible] has [illegible] for saloon purposes, a fact unknown to Mr Hayes, as he claims. Hayes' attention was recently called to this matter by newspaper publications originating from a story told by Senator Manderson at Hayes' expense. Manderson met Hayes in Chicago recently and jokingly told him that he was depreciating his [illegible] property by permitting a saloon to [illegible] [illegible]

THE CRISIS.

Gladstone Sends His Resignation to the Queen.

HIS SPEECH IN THE COMMONS

Conservative Leaders Hold a Conference and Agree to Accept the Ministry if Asked by the Queen—Parliament Adjourns

London June 9 The Standard in [illegible] says: We cannot believe that the ministers will leave office. They have received a mortal stroke, but they must whether they like it or not agree to linger on until the general election. This very blunder renders them indispensable. Everything is unfinished and things in suspense. What can [illegible] conservatives [illegible]. The [illegible] must have a majority [illegible] which [illegible] look to their [illegible]. An election now [illegible] [illegible] retract [illegible] but must patiently [illegible] their duties to the country by struggling manfully in their painful position. Party life must remain in suspense until the election. The Standard says that Earl Spencer wanted the duration of the crimes act to be three years, but a compromise on two years was agreed to and a bill drafted under Earl Spencer's direction.

FROM THE TIMES

London June 9—The Times in an editorial says: The resignation of the cabinet in the present condition of affairs must not be hastily decided upon. It is the government's duty to consider whether [illegible] course would not be wrong to the country. A financial modus vivendi might easily be arranged, abandoning the increase in the duties on flour and spirits without leaving Childers a larger deficit to carry forward to the next budget than would have been the case if the £11,000,000 of the vote of credit had been spent instead of only £4,000,000.

THE CABINET DECIDE TO RESIGN

London, June 9. The cabinet council convened at noon and was in session until 1:16 o'clock. It is understood that the situation was thoroughly discussed and it was decided that in view of the defeat last night on the budget it would be inconsistent for members of the cabinet to remain longer in office, and it was resolved that their resignation be tendered the queen at once. This decision of the cabinet caused a feverish feeling on the stock exchange. Consols declined 3-16 while Russian securities are ⅛ lower. On all provincial exchanges the weak feeling in financial circles is more marked, as is also the decline in government bonds.

A GREAT SURPRISE

Great surprise is expressed at the government. It was expected that an effort would be made last night to prevent the proposed increase in duties upon beer and spirits, but there was no idea that the opposition would overturn the cabinet. It was rumored as extremely doubtful whether the ministers could resign and leave unfinished so many important matters relating to both home and foreign affairs. Nothing more untoward than the present crisis could have occurred. Apparently men of all parties are of the opinion that the government should [illegible] remain provisionally, that is until after the general elections.

THE TORIES

It is reported to-day that the tories will [illegible] [illegible] refuse to accept office. If this is true the government will then finish supply measures, drop all bills to which strong opposition is made, and dissolve.

The Standard in its evening edition to-day said it believes that the result of the cabinet council this afternoon was a unanimous decision affirming the necessity of the resignation of the entire cabinet.

Earl Salisbury has been in consultation with Sir Stafford Northcote. It is expected that surviving members of the last Disraeli cabinet will hold a meeting this afternoon and consider the situation and their own responsibility in the premises.

IN THE COMMONS

The attendance at prayers at the opening of the House of Commons this afternoon was unusually large. The report that the ministry had resigned had become circulated pretty thoroughly throughout the metropolis, and great crowds of people surrounded all the entrances to the parliament buildings eager to catch a glimpse of the ministers when they should enter, or hear report bearing upon impending events. It was generally understood before the meeting of the house that Gladstone would move adjournment until Friday in order to enable the government to communicate with the queen regarding the crisis and the best method of meeting it. Members of commons before prayer hour stood about in the lobbies eagerly discussing the situation.

GLADSTONE ENTERS

Gladstone a few minutes after 4 o'clock this afternoon entered the house of commons. His appearance was that of a firm man, perfectly undisturbed. He at once proceeded to the speaker's desk and entered into conversation with Mr Peel. During the conversation the premier evidently was in bright spirits and he was loudly cheered by radical members of the house. When he showed himself in his usual place he very self possession seemed to enthuse his admirers and the chamber was fairly rent with cheer after cheer, and the applause became an ovation. At last Mr Gladstone arose in deference to the greeting. He said the cabinet on assembling to-day thought they were under obligations to submit a dutiful communication to the queen. [Cheers.] It would be premature on his part to enter into particulars concerning the nature of the communication just now. He would say however, that as on former occasions a few days must elapse before the result of that communication could be arrived at, so as to be made known to the house. During the interval, Mr Gladstone concluded, the house would follow its usual custom in refraining from the transaction of ordinary business, and he would move that the house on rising do adjourn until Friday.

BOTH HOUSES ADJOURN

7 P M—The house of commons and the house of lords have adjourned until next Friday.

British consols have fallen ¼ since the closing of the market this afternoon.

CRISIS NOTES

The government has notified the different offices of the internal revenue department throughout the United Kingdom that additional duties on spirits and beer have been abandoned.

Although Gladstone's statement in the commons this afternoon did not contain any direct announcement of resignation by the cabinet, the terms he employed were those which have been invariably used on similar occasions and were taken to indicate that resignation had been decided on and tendered to the queen.

The conservatives are divided on the question of the expediency of assuming power. The majority of them favor trying the experiment. It is expected by the tories that Marquis Salisbury will be ready by Friday next to accept an invitation by the queen to form a provisional government.

It is rumored that Gladstone intends entirely to abandon political life.

FORECAST OF THE NEW CABINET

It is reported that the conservative leaders at a conference this evening decided to accept office. Following is a forecast of a portion of the new cabinet: Marquis of Salisbury, prime minister and secretary Stanford foreign department; Sir Michael Hicks Beach, chancellor of the exchequer and leader in the house of commons; Sir Stafford Northcote, who will go to the house of lords, lord president of the council; Lord Randolph Churchill, secretary of state for India; Colonel Frederick A Stanley, secretary of state for war. The ministers will attempt no measures calculated to give the liberals a chance to gain a victory. They will recast the budget in accord with the votes of the house, and when estimates are passed will dissolve parliament. The Parnellites count upon the lapsing of the coercion measure.

Ministerial circles take the defeat with equanimity. It is stated that the cabinet in view of the tendency to disruption and internal discord were willing to take advantage of a chance to resign. The crisis postpones indefinitely a settlement with Russia. The conservatives will adopt Earl Granville's Afghan [illegible] but will insist upon stringent guarantees against a further Russian advance.

AN IRISH STANDPOINT

Dublin June 9—The Freeman's Journal to-day commenting on the defeat of the government last night on the budget, says: The defeat was due to the action of the Parnellites in refusing to uphold the cabinet from which they received nothing but broken promises and from which Ireland could expect nothing but injustice as was foreshadowed in the proposed attempt to again saddle upon Ireland the iniquitous provisions of the crimes act. The result of the vote last night will ensure Earl Spencer and his lieutenants at the castle to quit Ireland leaving behind them the memory of an administration which was [illegible] notorious for cold blooded brutality [illegible]

GLADSTONE [illegible] BALMORAL

New York June [illegible] A London special to the Post says Gladstone goes to-night to Balmoral to place his resignation in the queen's hands. It is [illegible] that the conservatives will take office. Prominent members are urging the leaders to do so.

ENGLAND

THE SILVER QUESTION

London June [illegible] The Pall Mall Gazette [illegible] that Delmar in his interview with President Cleveland left practical treatment of the silver question [illegible] Secretary Manning, whose mind is fixed on a gold doctrine, and who is using all opportunities to discourage monetary [illegible] Delmar said that Manning in his annual report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1885 will probably recommend the repeal of the Bland act. This recommendation will be supported by both the treasurer and comptroller of the currency, and after them by the entire eastern press and banks. In his annual message to congress Delmar predicted that President Cleveland would make a similar recommendation. Delmar believed the effect of demonetization of silver in America upon the Indian [illegible] would be a reduction of the value of a rupee now worth 2 [illegible] to 1s and perhaps even lower. To save India from disaster he said two measures could be adopted—mints in England could be opened to free coinage of silver, or Indian mints closed to silver.

DAMAGE BY A BURST SEWER

London June 9 Great damage was caused last evening in the most aristocratic part of London by the bursting of a sewer which had been overstrained by recent storms. Scores of houses in the West End have their basements flooded. There are three feet of water in many fashionable stores and the barracks of the Guards are seriously damaged. The residence of United States Minister Phelps at 4 Lowndes square is flooded, as is the residence of the Earl of Kimberly, secretary of state for India, at 50 Lowndes square. The house of lords was startled by the arrival of a courier sent to inform Lord Kimberly that it was impossible to prepare dinner as his basement was flooded. Many of the [illegible] returned to their homes and a score of them found their residences in a similar plight.

THE SCANDAL CASE SETTLEMENT

London June 9. It is announced to-day that the terms of settlement of the slander case of Charles M [illegible] Adams against Lord Coleridge have been arranged as follows: The lord chief justice settles [illegible] of £[illegible] early on his daughter Miss Mildred on the occasion of her marriage to Mr Adams, and legal disputes are to be referred to arbitration.

MUST BE ASKED

London June 10—It is now understood that the conservatives will form a new cabinet and undertake the administration of the government, if requested to do so by the queen. In the absence of such request they will leave the present ministers to untangle their own difficulties.

THE STOCK MARKET

London, June 9, 12:30 P M—Consols opened at 99 [illegible] for both accounts.

SPAIN

THE CHOLERA EPIDEMIC

Madrid June 9. Despite the repeated denials of the authorities it is known that there have been [illegible] cases of Asiatic cholera in this city and two deaths from that disease. Cholera has also broken out in Castellon de la Plana, where there have been fourteen cases.

Madrid June 9—Special wards in the hospital have been assigned for suspected cases of cholera. The authorities are visiting the poorer quarters of the city and attending to the disinfection of houses. Vessels from Valencia are subjected to three days quarantine at other Spanish ports. France, Italy and Germany quarantine vessels from Valencia.

There were eight suspected cases of cholera reported here to-day. There was also a rumor that four deaths had occurred from the same disease.

In the cortes Pomero y Robledo, minister of the interior, made a statement which confirmed the truth of the report of the outbreak of cholera in Valeria. He denied however that any authenticated cases of cholera had yet appeared in Madrid. The government said the minister would re-adopt extraordinary precautionary measures taken during the outbreak of the disease in 1884 when it erected lazarettos and established cordons of troops for the purpose of isolating districts infected.

CHOLERA AMONG THE SOLDIERS

Madrid June 9 The [illegible] have evacuated their barracks owing to the breaking out of cholera. Of four cases in the barracks three proved fatal. The men are now encamped on the outskirts of the city. Measures are being taken thoroughly to fumigate and disinfect the barracks and all private houses in which cholera has made its appearance. There were seven fresh cases in Valencia yesterday. All persons arriving in Valencia by [illegible] are subjected to three days observation [illegible] show proper [illegible] certificates of good health. The Menendist Central Army has twice been driven out of Coutepeque, which place is now occupied by the national troops. Rivas however remains in close proximity threatening an attack. The nationals have a large force under arms. A battalion of Nicaraguans crossed the river Lempa yesterday and another battalion is marching on Coutepeque. Everything hinges on the attitude of Guatemala, which country Menendez asserts will assist him, in which case the whole of Central America will become involved. If Guatemala remains neutral the Salvador government will probably overpower the revolutionists within a fortnight.

THINKS GORDON IS ALIVE

London June 9—A dispatch from Cairo says: Some excitement has been created here among English officials and residents by the arrival of a Coptic merchant from Khartoum. He states that he witnessed the fall of Khartoum and that immediately after the massacre of the garrison El Mahdi demanded the head of General Gordon for a trophy, but his warriors produced the head of the Austrian consul Mr Hansal. When the mistake was discovered a second search was made for General Gordon, but El Mahdi's followers were unable to find any trace of the hero of Khartoum. They found several other Europeans, but no other documents were found on their clothes to show that either of them was General Gordon. The Copt says it is possible General Gordon, knowing that all was lost, made his escape.

Seventy robbers who were waiting for the smashup, plundered the train. The wounded and other survivors were completely terrorized and could make no resistance.

PARTIAL ELECTION OF OFFICERS

In the afternoon the grand lodge proceeded to the election of officers and when the hour of adjournment came the following had been elected: Grand master, T G Reames of Jacksonville; deputy grand master, J C Fullerton of Roseburg; grand senior warden, A Nasburg of Marshfield.

As the evening was devoted to a lodge of sorrow, further balloting was deferred until this morning.

LODGE OF SORROW

A beautiful tribute was paid to the memory of deceased members by the Grand Lodge of Masons of Oregon at their temple last evening, consisting of the solemn and impressive ceremonies of a "Lodge of Sorrow." About 250 members were present from the different lodges in the state.

The hall was richly draped with festoons of black crape gathered in even folds with white streamers and white rosettes. Near the head of the hall was erected a catafalque, wreathed in myrtle and ivy vines and immortelles. Emblems of the order were wreathed in the richest and rarest of flowers and placed about the casket. Memorial tablets were arranged around the catafalque bearing the names of deceased members, as follows:

John Elliot, A M Belt, Amory Holbrook, T H Cox, Robert Thompson, C J Trenchard, Geo A Eades, W S Caldwell, M V B Brown, T J Holmes, C F Switzler, Noah Huber, Ralph Wilcox, T J Stump, Lemuel Lyon, Adam Van Dusen.

The grand master D P Mason, signaled silence at 8 o'clock, and conducted the exercises in a most solemn and impressive manner. The light was turned low, and as a small procession moved around the catafalque with slow and measured steps to the music of a sweet, solemn dirge, it seemed like weird spirits paying mournful tribute to a loved companion laid deep down in the caverns of the dead. The tolling of the muffled funeral knell, followed by a silence making breathing guarded and difficult, was the most sublime manifestation of human sorrow, a sweeter haven of consolation to a mourner could not be conceived.

Appropriate remarks were made by distinguished members of the order, paying eloquent tribute to the dead. The remarks were interspersed with chants.

Rev I W Hill D D grand orator delivered the following address:

"Solemn sounds the funeral chime—
Note of our departing time."

On every side we behold the sable emblems of death, and to-night we meet in this lodge of sorrow to do honor to the memory of our departed brethren. The slow tolling bell and the sad chant of the mourner is heard over the earth, for death claims this world as his kingdom. Sang the poet:

"Take the wings of the morning and the Barcan desert pierce,
Or lose thyself in the continuous woods
Where rolls the Oregon and the dead are there."
Death knows no favorite. Alt! all are his.

"There is no flock, however well tended
But one dead lamb is there
There is no home, how well defended
But has one vacant chair."

Thus, my brethren, our sorrow but voices the sad feeling of our race which has here no continuing city.

There is something in the very thought of death which causes humanity to shudder for well has it been said:

Come to the bridal chamber, death,
Come to the mother when she feels for the first time her first born's breath,
Come when the heart beats high and warm with banquet song, and feast and wine,
Come in the battle shock of ocean storm
And thou art terrible. The tear, the gloom, the knell, the pall, the bier, and all we know or dream or fear of agony are thine.

[illegible] "the king of terrors" to mankind and the grave the emblem of despair. And yet to the enlightened death is but the entrance to life. We die that we may truly live. The grave is to us the testimony of the triumph of the soul, and the tolling bell is the call to the visitors in life's battle to enter the father's house. Masonry beautifully symbolizes the journey of life and the brother who has penetrated the meaning of the various degrees has comprehended the mys[tery]

PORTLAND, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 10, 1885.

GLADSTONE'S DEFEAT.

Mr. Gladstone could carry in the commons a vote of credit for $55,000,000, but upon his effort to make selection of the subjects of taxation to raise the money, he fails. Outvoted on his plan of raising revenue, his administration falls. The house was willing to vote the money, but when it came to imposing the taxes to get it each and every interest wanted the burden laid on some other interest. Gladstone's fall on such an issue proves once more the wisdom of Burke's remark, that to tax and to please is no more given to man than to love and be wise.

Upon the general issue of voting money to sustain the glory of the empire Mr. Gladstone could easily carry a majority. But to get the money new taxes are necessary, and to these new taxes there is objection from representatives of every interest. Was the additional burden to be imposed on wine, on tea, or on spirits? Mr. Gladstone selected spirits for the new impost, and straightway the representatives of the traders in this commodity united with those who are opposed to his government on general principles, to beat him. Similar things are continually occurring in politics. We can carry through our house of representatives a resolution in favor of general reduction of the duties on imports, but just as soon as it is proposed to carry the resolution into practical effect by the reducing the duties on special articles, the attempt meets with defeat. Reform is necessary, but we must spare small beer!

Of course representatives of British Jingoism are delighted with the defeat of Gladstone, even on this small issue. Though they couldn't beat him on any large and general policy, they can beat him on the petty question of a trifling additional tax on spirits, and it is enough. With Gladstone out of the way the British lion will be unmuzzled, and he can go roaming and roaring up and down the world after his old fashion, seeking whom he may intimidate or devour.

It is curious to remember that English Jingoism in America, which opposes Gladstone because his foreign policy is not sufficiently aggressive, was bitterly opposed last year to the republican party of the United States because its candidate for the presidency was alleged to be an American Jingo. When the ox is gored it makes every difference whose property the ox is.

A FIELD FOR ENTERPRISE.

A report on the "range and ranch cattle business of the United States," just put forth by the government bureau of statistics, affords interesting proofs of a theory recently advanced by THE OREGONIAN, namely, that the total product of cattle in eastern Oregon and Washington would be greater if the country were settled and under fence and plow, than now when large areas in their virgin state are given up entirely to grazing. It is shown by the reports of the Chicago stock yards that the cattle product of the thickly settled country directly tributary to that market is greater by 25 per cent than that of the great western ranges which send their annual "drives" to Chicago, and the same is true at St. Louis and Kansas City. Cattle, it seems, like men, thrive better under civilization. Thirty or forty millions of civilized men live in comfort on the island of Britain, where an equal number of savages would die of starvation.

It need not be feared that the settling up of the country will extinguish the cattle business which is one of our great productive industries. The more people we get, the more the country is cut up into farms and occupied, the greater will be the development of the cattle interest. From one to five acres of wild range are required for the maintenance of each "head" of cattle, but under judicious cultivation and management ten "head" can be kept on the space where nature unassisted could only provide for one. The stock business of the future in this country will be very different from the stock business of the past. There will be no great roving bands, no gigantic "round-ups," no big annual drives; but there will be more and better cattle for market each fall and they will yield a larger aggregate profit than formerly.

We lose greatly now by shipping or driving our cattle out alive to other markets for slaughter. The direct loss can easily be figured. It is simply the difference between dead net freight and live gross freight, with the cost of care and feeding and the loss of weight in transit. But the indirect loss is incalculable. Stock and slaughter yards at Portland would be quite as important a public benefit as would the reduction works now so much talked about. They would add to the profit of the stock business of the country, connect the cattle-producing sections with Portland by a new mutual interest, yield a large direct profit which now goes east to this city and give employment to a large force of men. Their benefits would be felt, as stated by a correspondent a few days ago, by every department of business and by all classes of people.

It is from enterprises of this kind that we must expect advancement for Portland. We must put to account the opportunities which lie close at hand. Mere store-keeping and banking can no longer yield a high degree of prosperity. If Chicago had been content to sit an unproductive factor between the east and the west, content with the profit of buying and selling alone she would only be a cross roads to this day. Her prodigious growth is due to the spirit of her men who attracted the great streams of profit to her as a center. St. Louis was just as favorably situated, but she sat still and allowed herself to become a mere business filter instead of a business reservoir. The start which St. Louis had at the beginning of the contest and her considerable wealth only served to make her conservative and keep her back. Chicago, young, poor and with nothing much to lose, pushed ahead to greatness. In the result of this contest there is an interesting suggestion for Portland at the present time.

Mr Pennoyer, whom the democrats have named for mayor, is a man of good reputation for honesty, but not remarkable for correctness of judgment. He is firm in his opinions and usually combative in maintaining them, though they are often eccentric and even visionary. He is a strong democratic partisan on general principles, though it is not in his nature to agree with members of his own party in matters of detail. He is regarded generally as somewhat "cranky" and rather "inharmonious," a citizen a little disagreeable sometimes, but on the whole rather liked than otherwise for the combination of contradictory qualities that appear in his make-up. His mental constitution, supported by long habit, is that of opposition, and he has been a vehement democrat through all these years partly for the reason that he could not follow anything that other men begin. The question whether he can be elected depends chiefly on the action of the republican city convention—that is, on the naming of the candidate against him.

'Reform' has struck McM[illegible] [illegible] county. A 'rascal' named Turner, who has been postmaster there for the past [illegible] years, has been told to "go." He fought through all the war as a Union soldier, and has been removed to make room for an admirer of the lost cause, whom Missouri got too hot to hold toward the end of the war. Turner was removed arbitrarily and peremptorily. There was no reason whatever for it, beyond the desire of the administration to make room for one of its own "offensive partisans," at the expense of a Union soldier.

The New York Herald (mugwump) is moved by the offensive partisanship and spoils tendencies of some of the president's appointments to say: "We believe the public interest will be served by the senate republicans standing strictly upon the ground that removals, except in the larger administrative offices, should not be made without cause. If they do this, they will do good work for a reformed civil service."

It is suggested that the Apaches should be awarded land in severalty. Six feet by three would be about right.

THE LESSON OF THE SITUATION.

Now, while the mistakes and faults of the late legislature are fresh in the public mind, is a good time to consider how future embarrassments of the same kind may be avoided. We should indeed be a heedless people if we did not see the lessons of the present bad situation, and we shall be a careless people if by them we profit not. Back of the faults of the legislature lies the fault of those who elected it. Our people have too lightly considered the duty of legislation and have had little care into whose hands it has been given. It has been the practice of the country to send "light timber" to the legislature, partly because the best men have not desired to go, but chiefly because the business has been considered trifling and unimportant. There have, of course, been many exceptions, but second or third class men have been the rule. Non-competents who could be easily spared from home, tricksters representing special interests, mere dummies sent by politicians and worked by them at will, and stripplings eager for reputation, have been too commonly in the seats which should have been occupied by men of integrity, business sense and experience in affairs.

The business of legislation is extremely practical, and it requires practical men. The disposition of the public funds, the direction of public policies, the laying down of laws, are matters worthy by their importance of the best intelligence of the country. Men should be chosen who represent the people in their character and spirit as well as in a few particular needs.

Honesty is usually very scarce in our legislatures. There are few men who would steal, but there is very little of the sturdy kind of honesty which will not "swap" vote for vote, which insists upon understanding bills before voting upon them, which regards legislative membership as a high public trust. There is very little of the old-fashioned spirit of honesty in a body which allows its members to violate their official oaths without loss of credit, as our last legislature did. But honesty without intelligence and without experience of men and affairs is not enough capital for a legislator. The work in hand is a sort that requires all these qualities and the people should bear it in mind.

Our best men should consider legislative service a duty not honorably to be avoided. Every man owes something to the public welfare, and no man ought to decline to serve where his service would be a public benefit.

Mr Gratz Brown, Jr, who has some of his father's spirit, is the defendant in a novel case now pending at Kirkwood, a suburb of St. Louis. It appears that the young man with others cast sheep's-eyes over the garden wall of Miss Anna Sneed's "select school for young ladies" were arrested for trespass and taken before a justice of the peace. All of them but Brown humbly begged pardon and were let off, but the son of his father was made of sterner stuff, and demanded a trial. He engaged able counsel and subpenaed all the girls of the seminary, and the result was most interesting. The girls, arrayed in court, testified that they had derived great amusement and consolation from the visits of Gratz Brown, Jr. One of them placed especial value upon his crawling through a hole in the fence in a swallow-tailed coat, and said that this alone cheered her through her studies for a week. Another plaintively told how he had climbed the pickets and recited Romeo until a bucket of slops fell upon him, when he remarked that he would retire if his presence was objectionable, and the girls all said no, they wouldn't have him leave for the world. In spite of this overwhelming testimony the jury brought in a verdict of guilty, and a fine of $20 was imposed upon Gratz Brown Jr, who immediately appealed the case and retained fresh counsel.

The new high school building of this city presents a very fine appearance on the outside. There is not the equal of it on the Pacific slope. But if one wishes to see a marvel of architectonic disproportion, let him look into the interior of the building. Here is a structure costing $125,000 at least, which does not afford as much available room for school purposes as could be obtained in a building that might be erected for $45,000. Except as to outward appearance, the study seems to have been how to get the least for the most money.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

OREGON

A colony of fifty persons left Tennessee June 1 for eastern Oregon.

About 500 acres of grain have been sown in Fox valley, Grant county, since last fall.

A new library has also been added, and the widow of Bayard Taylor has just sent a complete set of her husband's works as a donation to the library.

Heppner Times: Saturday evening an accident happened to Mac McClary, up at Kirk & Houston's sawmill, which came very near putting a period to Mac's existence. He had felled a large tree. He watched it till it struck the ground, and noticed that in falling it carried to the ground with it some small fir trees. He noticed them spring back, and then turned his head. Just as he did so a limb about six inches through and six feet long struck him on the head, knocking him senseless. He was carried to the mill, where he lay in an unconscious condition for several hours. Dr. Swinburne was summoned, who soon rallied the patient. He came to town Monday and is now walking our streets with his head in a sling. The wonder is how in blazes it happened that his head was not mashed to a jelly, as the limb fell at least thirty feet.

North Yakima Farmer: The Livingston brothers having purchased the Elliott placer claim, in the Swauk district, on the head of the Yakima, have built a bedrock flume, three feet wide, two feet deep, and 450 feet long, and have sent for hose with which to hydraulic. This is the first systematic attempt at placer mining in the district.

The North Yakima Farmer says: "The smart, live citizens of Ellensburg have gotten ahead of us on a mail route to Okanagan, and now they propose to improve the wagon road to that point, put in a ferry over the Columbia, and reach for the trade of the Big Bend country. We expect that the next thing we hear, the mail route to supply the settlements of the Natches valley will have its radiating point at Ellensburg."

The Alice Gold and Silver Mining Company have declared the fifteenth quarterly dividend of six and one-fourth cents per share on the capital stock of the company, amounting to $25,000.

Last week two cowboys on the Big Dry, about seventy miles north of Miles City, killed a couple of Indians who were running off five head of horses belonging to one of the outfits in that vicinity.

Saturday morning, about daylight, Thomas T McLees, while breaking on a stock train under Conductor Cary, coming through Bozeman tunnel, was knocked from the cars by a fallen rock, fell under the cars and was killed.—Glendive Times.

In the new placer mines in the Bitter Root valley, about twelve miles from Stevensville, there are over 100 men now working, and more going in every day. Parties recently from the mines say that the diggings yield $6 per day to the man.

VALUE OF OLD SHOES

They Find their Way from the Ash Barrel into Artistic Decorations

It may be a surprise to some people to learn, says the Boston Transcript, that the old shoes cast into the ash barrel and carried away with other offal should find their way back to the house in the form of handsome wall decorations. A reporter asked a prominent wall paper manufacturer whether it was true that old shoes were used in his business.

"We buy," said the foreman, "all the boots and shoes that the scavengers can bring us. We pay different prices for the different qualities of leather. A pair of fine calfskin boots will bring as high as 10 cents. We don't buy cowhide boots. The boots and shoes are first soaked in several waters to get the dirt off from them. Then the nails and threads are removed, the leather is ground up into a fine pulp and is ready for use. The embossed leather paperings which have come into fashion lately, and the stamped leather fire screens are really nothing but thick paper covered with a layer of this pressed leather pulp. The finer the quality of the leather the better it takes the bronze and the old gold and other expensive colors in the designs painted on them. Fashionable people think they are going away back to medieval times when they have the walls of their libraries and dining rooms covered with embossed leather. They don't know that the shoes and boots which their neighbors throw into the ash barrel a month before form the beautiful material on their walls and on the screens which protect their eyes from the fire. We could buy the old shoes cheaper if it wasn't for the competition from carriage makers and bookbinders and picture frame makers. I don't know how many other trades use old shoes and boots, but the tops of carriages are largely made up of them, ground up and pressed into sheets. Bookbinders use them in making the cheaper of leather bindings, and the new style of rustic frames with leather mats is almost entirely made of the castoff coverings of our feet."

DEATH IN THE OVEN

To say nothing of the indecent trespass upon innocent housekeepers by conveying to the kitchen in a cooking preparation a secret combination of putrid animal urine known as ammonia, as is the case with a number of baking powders, there is a question that the stunted growth of children, and a large class of ultimately fatal diseases, as dyspepsia, scrofula, kidney diseases, nervous derangements, etc, are traceable to a lack of legislative interference for suppressing the sale of that chemical poison, ammonia, in human food. A wholesome bread lightening gas is a necessity in modern and civilized existence. Fifty million people in the United States are daily consumers of bread artificially raised and lightened, yet statistics show that one-half the baking powders on the market are criminally impure. The Massachusetts official state chemist, Prof James Babcock, says that the amount of ammonia secretly entering into a baking powder advertised under the smiling pretense of absolute purity makes its sale a crime. We do not hesitate to recommend for use in every family where cleanliness of diet ranks as a virtue with cleanliness of person Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, which is free from ammonia, lime, alum or any drug taint whatever, and in the scientific honesty of its composition is a credit to our civilization.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

EAST PORTLAND, June 5, 1885.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

You being under the impression that the authorities of East Portland have very little regard for what is evidently their duty at the present time, why not advise them to maintain at least fifty feet of our dreaded flag and [illegible] the simple truth from the lips of the [illegible] [illegible] your or one of your own reporters? LOCAL AND GENERAL.

CONVICTED OF BLACKMAIL.—O. H. Cambridge, an ex-policeman, was tried yesterday before Judge Stearns and a jury in the state circuit court, and convicted upon a charge of attempting to extort money from Emil Weber, a gambler. The prosecution showed that Cambridge had lodged a complaint against Weber and had then agreed not to appear against him upon condition of being paid $100, which he received. The defense set up that this was not extorting money by threats, but was simply a compromise of a crime, that Cambridge did not threaten to accuse Weber of a crime but that Cambridge and Weber compromised a crime with which Weber had already been charged. Judge Stearns ruled adversely upon this point, and sustained the indictment. The jury thereupon returned a verdict of guilty. Mrs. Cambridge, an elderly lady, who showed plainly the great sorrow that had come upon her, was present in the courtroom during the trial, and ... the hearts of many by her weeping after the announcement of her husband's conviction. The latter's counsel asked for and obtained five days in which to prepare a motion for a new trial, and the prisoner was remanded to his cell.

SALTPETRE WILL KILL SHEEP.—Some days since THE OREGONIAN received an inquiry from an eastern Oregon subscriber who wanted to know whether saltpetre would hurt cattle. Yesterday an old stock man explained to a reporter the probable reason for the inquiry. No doubt the subscriber was a newcomer and had heard people talking about saltpetre and wanted to learn further on the subject. If saltpetre is sprinkled pretty thick on a range where sheep are feeding, it will kill them, because, being close nibblers, they eat too much. There is no danger of cattle eating enough to hurt them. This spreading saltpetre is a trick well known to old cattle men, but none except the very unscrupulous would make use of it. For instance, they see a band of sheep feeding on a particularly nice range that they would like to have for their cattle. All they have to do is to spread saltpetre where the sheep are congregated and the next day they turn "toes upward," and what was death to the sheep will not injure cattle.

DEAL SUMMARILY WITH GAMBLERS.—"What is going to be done with Weber, the gambler, now that Cambridge has been convicted of extorting money from him?" was asked of District Attorney Gearin yesterday. "Oh, he will plead guilty to the crime of gambling," was the reply, "he has no help for it." Though he has succeeded in ensnaring another in a crime, justice should not lose sight of the fact that he is most deserving of punishment. The place that he runs has been the one always to most openly defy the law, and the clicking of the ivories from its interior can be heard on the busiest thoroughfare of the city. There is plenty of law to punish gambling, and if offenders are summarily dealt with, that class of leeches upon the community will be soon shaken off.

CONFESSED TO STAGE ROBBERY.—It seems that the stage robbery between Montesano and Olympia last week was a conspiracy between four young men, which one of the number, William Vaughn, has confessed. He is only 20 years old. Vaughn says that it was arranged between him, Alex Melville, Albert Clay the stage driver, and Jasper Jones, a farm hand, that the first two named should stop the stage while the last two were on the box, and that Jones and Clay should throw Wells, Fargo & Co's box out. Melville and Vaughn are farmers' sons and have hitherto borne excellent reputations. All four were held to answer in bonds of $3000 each. Melville secured bail and was released. The other three are in jail at Olympia.

ASTORIA'S NEW COLLECTOR.—John Hobson, the newly-appointed collector of the port, was formally inducted into his new position yesterday, says the Astorian. J. E. Higgins and Clum Brown are in the office with him. Mr. Brown, who was deputy collector during Capt. Merryman's administration, remains for some time, his experience and clerical ability being found of valuable aid. F. Z. Ferguson takes the place of A. Montgomery as inspector. Milt Parish remains as the other inspector.

OWNS A VICIOUS DOG.—M. Fried, a teamster, was arrested yesterday upon complaint of G. W. Philbrick, upon a charge of permitting a vicious dog to run at large. Philbrick claims that while going by Fried's house a few days ago the dog, a large shepherd, sprang out and bit him in the leg. After this Fried promised to shoot the animal, Philbrick says, but Fried says he offered to let Philbrick shoot him. From this disagreement came the arrest. Fried deposited $25 for his appearance in police court to-day.

OUR EASTERN VISITORS.—Mr. Chas. Francis Adams and party will arrive to-morrow from the Sound, and will leave the same afternoon or Friday for Walla Walla. Senator Sherman and party will arrive to-morrow at Kalama, where they will be met by a special boat and go to Astoria. Captain Flavel has tendered the use of his best tug for a trip to the bar, but it is not known whether the Ohio statesman is fond enough of the sea to accept.

GRADUATING EXERCISES.—Yesterday afternoon the graduating exercises of St. Helen's Hall took place in the assembly, which was crowded with friends of the school. The only graduate was Miss Emily C. Failing, daughter of Mr. Henry Failing. The graduating address was delivered by Professor Richard H. Thornton, of the law department of the University of Oregon, and will be presented in to-morrow's OREGONIAN.

PLUCKY ACT.—About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon D. P. Hughes, the Oak street tailor, did a brave thing which excited the admiration of all who saw it. A horse and buggy came tearing down First street at furious speed. Hughes ran out, caught the horse's bridle in the handle of his cane and hung on until he stopped the animal. As he is a small man and a cripple, the act is worthy of mention.

IN SAN FRANCISCO.—A gentleman who came up from San Francisco said to an OREGONIAN reporter yesterday that Harry Gottliebsen, the missing dry goods clerk, did not go to Helena, but went to San Francisco by the State of California on her last trip down. He was booked under an assumed name. When the Columbia left San Francisco, five days ago, Gottliebsen was standing on the dock.

PLAYING BALL EAST.—Bob Geis, the regular catcher of the Portlands, is now playing with the Delawares, of New York City, who belong to the state league. He had been heard of before he reached New York and his services were in demand. His playing is reported as excellent. He will go with the club over the New England circuit and expects to be back in Portland about August 1.

STARTED.—The Iowa editors left Omaha yesterday, and will arrive here next Sunday at 2 P. M. Their time in Oregon and Washington is limited to nine days, as they leave for home on Tuesday, the 23d. Their train consists of five Pullman sleeping cars, one special car, one baggage and one day coach. The sleepers will come through to Portland.

CONTRACT FOR COFFEE.—The government contract for the furnishing of twelve tons of coffee to the various military posts in the northwest has been awarded to Closset & Devers of this city. This is the first time this contract has been let outside of San Francisco, and speaks well for the success of an enterprising firm.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will deliver an opinion in this court this morning, on the application of the district attorney to have the judgment in U. S. vs. Griswold satisfied, in pursuance of an alleged compromise thereof by the secretary of the treasury, in pursuance of section 3469 of the revised statutes.

SENATOR SHERMAN'S remarks in Salem and Portland, to encourage home industry and to patronize small manufacturers, are very important. There are a great many small manufacturers who, if given encouragement, will in time be of great benefit to the state. For instance, H. B. Litt, of the cloak and suit house, while he is still in the retail trade, will, if given a fair trial by interior merchants, be able to sell them goods made right here in Oregon, at prices that will do away with competition from abroad. Mr. Litt will make it an object to carry the interior merchants against outside manufacturers. Keep the small industries at home in working order, and be benefited by the lower prices that will follow.

THE SURRENDER OF CHIEF JOSEPH

[illegible] AND OR. June [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I [illegible] the following from a late copy of the Sun [illegible]:

A dispatch from Vancouver published in Thursday's OREGONIAN states that General Miles [illegible] that he should return to [illegible] the surrender. Perhaps no [illegible] General Howard did then.

The truth is that General Howard occupied no other position than that of an observer at the eventful occasion when Chief Joseph surrendered to General Miles, whose command had overtaken ... and forced Joseph to [illegible]. The only officer present who could assume authority to offer or accept conditions was General Miles. The surrender was unconditional. F.

DEMOCRATIC CITY CONVENTION.

Sylvester Pennoyer Nominated for Mayor. J. J. Gallagher, John Donnerberg and Eli Morrill for Councilmen

At [illegible] yesterday afternoon the democratic city convention met in the hall over the Standard office to nominate a candidate for mayor and one candidate for councilman in each ward. K. Hendenhall was chosen chairman and Wm Church Jr. secretary. N. N. Steeves, S. Blumauer and Wm Healy were appointed a committee on credentials, and C. C. Scott, A. Roberts and R. Gerdes a committee on permanent organization and order of business. After fifteen minutes recess the committee on credentials reported the following as entitled to seats as delegates, and the report was adopted:

First Ward—Thomas Ryan, Al. Rahles by R. Gerdes proxy, Ed McIntosh by James R. Irving proxy, Wm Healy, Ed Dunne, J. Reilly, C. C. Redmond by V. K. Strode proxy, M. Curry, James R. Irving.

Second ward—A. Roberts, D. Cole, Thomas Kearney, C. M. Nickum, S. Blumauer, [illegible], R. Mendenhall, Joseph Watson, John Donnerberg.

Third ward—George Herrall, D. W. Taylor, A. McCallum, N. N. Steeves, C. C. Scott, [illegible] by C. C. Scott proxy, William Church Jr., William Fleckenstein, W. F. Broocke.

The committee on permanent organization and order of business recommended as follows:

1. That the temporary officers be made the permanent officers.
2. Nomination of a candidate for mayor.
3. Ratification of ward nominations.
4. Appointment by the chair of a city committee consisting of one from each ward.

Adopted.

THE NOMINATIONS.

At this point delegate Gerdes moved that the convention adjourn until Thursday at 2 P. M. The motion received one weak second.

Delegate Fleckenstein jumped to his feet and asked some reason for the motion.

Gerdes said: "It is to give our republican brethren a chance to make their nominations first. They are in the majority and following all precedent they ought to put up their men first."

Fleckenstein answered: "I am not in favor of the motion. The republicans know now who our nominee is as well as we do. If we can't nominate a man who can stand fire for six days we had better quit right now and go home and not make a nomination."

This speech was received with loud applause alike from delegates and the crowd which numbered about 100.

Delegate Kearney said: "We came here to transact certain business and let's at it." [Loud applause.]

Gerdes, seeing the proposition hopeless, withdrew the motion.

Delegate Taylor placed S. Pennoyer in nomination for mayor.

Gerdes moved that Mr. Pennoyer be nominated by acclamation; carried amid applause.

After fifteen minutes recess the ward delegations reported the following nominations, which were ratified:

First ward—J. J. Gallagher.
Second ward—John Donnerberg.
Third ward—Eli Morrill.

The chairman appointed the following city committee: R. Gerdes, A. Roberts and C. C. Scott.

NOTES FROM THE BIG BEND.

ORONDO LANDING,
Douglas Co., W. T., May 29.

A number of new settlers have located claims in the various neighborhoods in the Big Bend this spring.

The county board appointed sheriff Hobbins to fill the vacancy occasioned by the decease of sheriff Jordin.

Don Wilson of Badger had his collar bone broken recently by being thrown from a bucking horse. He is doing as well as could be expected in the time.

Dr. Burr formerly of Ellensburg contemplates removal to the vicinity of Okanogan. He is now in practice at Medical Lake. He makes the second physician locating in Douglas county, as far as known.

We have been enjoying the luxury of new radishes, lettuce and onions since the beginning of the month and green peas and turnips are ready for the table now, which looks as though we are not living in latitude 48 north.

There have been two very copious rain storms in the Big Bend within the past three weeks besides a couple of light showers. The soil is more moist than usual at this season of the year and the ... crops of all kinds promise a prolific yield to the husbandman.

The board of county commissioners at their May session ordered the survey of a new road from the ... near Okanogan via Badger to Orondo Landing on the Columbia river. The survey was completed by county surveyor R. and two days ago, J. W. Stevens and Lewis Detwiler ... The distance is as follows: From Okanogan to Badger eight miles and from Okanogan to Orondo Landing thirteen and one half miles. The grade down the Columbia bluffs averages about one foot of fall in from fifteen to eighteen feet which will make a good grade for heavy teaming when completed.

A detachment of United States cavalry, numbering about twenty men, recently passed through here, Moses Coulee, Okanogan, Badger and Orondo Landing, camping several days in various parts of the Big Bend with the view of joining two companies of cavalry at Wenatchee, thence proceeding up the west side of the Columbia river, making detours of inspection towards the Cascade mountains at several points and thence proceeding to Lake Chelan for encampment for a short time. They are provided with shelter tents and pack horses to transport the camp equipage and commissary stores. This field service is probably for the purpose of inuring the soldiers to actual field service. They hail from Fort Walla Walla.

The early completion of the Yakima branch of the Northern Pacific railroad to Ellensburg, will make that point our nearest railroad communication and as a natural consequence the Big Bend and Upper Columbia and Okanogan River valleys will be brought in closer ties with Portland and the ocean. The second step in the march of civilization must be the opening of the Columbia river clear through to Portland—the people of the upper river are longing to see the realization of the latter grand event in the history of the development of the upper country—yea, we all long day and night for the sound and sight of the steamer. We are to have mail communication between Ellensburg and Okanogan via Wenatchee, Orondo Landing and Badger on the first of July, but Portland ought to have direct mail communication by the Columbia and Okanogan rivers to the custom house on the fifteen mile strip at the British Columbia line. This would require the establishment of a new mail route from Ainsworth via the Columbia and Okanogan valleys via steamers when navigation is opened) direct to the Fifteen Mile country. A number of important places would be supplied at numerous points in the valleys. If thought best this new route might intersect, for a time, the [illegible].

[illegible] and Okanogan mail route at Orondo Landing and thence establish new postoffices at Orondo, Chelan, [illegible] ... Fort Okanogan, and other points on the Moses reservation which is about to be put on the market ... the route terminating at [illegible] or other point on the Fifteen Mile strip. A good wagon road ... from Ellensburg ... Orondo Landing and one can be secured with a small ... to Lake Chelan, but probably the first wagon road will be completed to [illegible] canyon as $100 will make a good road up said canyon, and another $100 will build the road from the ... to the canyon ... thence there is open prairie with good road to Foster's Creek. Fort Okanogan ... also in the Okanogan valley to the Fifteen Mile strip.

A movement is on foot now to secure the new mail route ... river and ... to secure the new road across the country from ... to Okanogan via Okanogan and Moses ... to Ritzville on the N. P. R. R. and ... other ... the river ... ... without regard to what other ... or ... point ... and we hope the first ... of ... will stand by ... to see that ... such ... with ... C. ... and ... ORONDO

STATE MEDICAL SOCIETY

Second Day's Session—Several Interesting Papers and Ably Discussed by the Learned Medicos in Attendance

The second day's session of the Oregon State Medical Society was largely attended. The executive committee presented their report, as did the committee on legislation, who offered a bill that will be presented to the next legislature, intended to regulate the practice of medicine in Oregon.

The committee on ... reported that they were pleased ... of the members of the society having died during the past year.

The first paper presented was by Dr. [illegible] on the subject, Diagnosis of [illegible], which was afterwards duly discussed by Drs. ... Strong and Whitby.

A very interesting paper upon "Some Remarks in Regard to Treating Gun Shot Wounds" was read by Dr. J. A. Fulton. In opposing the probing of such wounds the writer took the ground that by so doing unnecessary irritation was caused, the blood clot was broken open, the air permitted to enter, the hemorrhage renewed, and the patient's whole system weakened and shocked. A bullet, said he, can be extracted six weeks after it is lodged in the body with much more safety than in six hours. He was satisfied that in many cases a bullet lodged in the system did no particular harm by remaining there, and believed that probing had been oftener practiced merely to satisfy the curiosity of the surgeon than for any good it was expected to do the patient. In his own experience he could cite several cases where patients had been plainly benefited by abstaining from the use of the probe.

An animated discussion followed the reading of this paper, which was participated in by Drs. Frazer, Saylor, Wilson, Fulton, Owens, Alter and others, the most of them agreeing with the writer.

The time having arrived for the election of officers for the ensuing year, balloting was done in the usual manner with the following result: President, J. W. [illegible]; vice president, Holt C. Wi[illegible]; secretary, F. P. Frazer; member of the executive board, Curtis C. Strong.

Other papers were presented by Dr. ... on Sprains, Dr. R. A. Urquhart on ... Stricture, Dr. A. D. Pennington ... on Hernia, and Dr. C. C. Strong on ... all of which were briefly discussed by those ...

Subjects for papers the next year ... were then chosen as follows: Bright's Disease of the Kidneys, The Germ Theory, ... Cystitis, Arthritis, and ... diseases. The society also voted to have the proceedings published in full with the papers presented in book form. All the discussions were reported stenographically by Mr. J. W. Cochran. Adjourned.

THE EAST SIDE.

PLEADED GUILTY

The Chinaman arrested Monday evening for assaulting another with a pipe in Ack Sing's wash house on I street, was arraigned before the recorder yesterday morning for assault and battery, and pleaded guilty. The recorder imposed a fine of $20 which was promptly paid by a friend from Portland who had evidently been concerned in such matters before and knew the probable result, as he held the amount of the fine in his hand ready to deposit when demanded.

M. E. CHURCH LYCEUM

This society will hold an open meeting at the M. E. church this (Wednesday) evening, when the subject to be discussed will be "Longfellow." In connection therewith a biographical sketch will be presented by Mr. J. A. Hines and Mr. F. H. Wells will treat of Longfellow as a Poet. The programme will also include the following readings: The Two Rivers, by Miss Ida A. Hines, Evangeline, by Prof. W. A. Wetzell, and Keramos ... by Guy Posson, and a selection by Mrs. J. A. Hines. Music principally inspired by the works of Longfellow will be interspersed throughout. The entertainment ... interesting and enjoyable. A general invitation is extended.

BROKE HIS ARM

Dick Bon... ... while ... friendly ... with George Drew last evening, slipped and fell on his right arm breaking the larger bone of the fore arm about midway between the wrist and elbow. The parties were in a hall ... the basement of Hall & Smith's building and Drew endeavored to ... his companion who started after him ... him in the front steps where the accident occurred. Dr. M. A. Flinn reduced the fracture and rendered the necessary treatment. It will be many a day before his right arm resumes its cunning with the razor.

NOTES

H. C. Myers, who is ranging stock for A. H. Johnson at Blalock's, is here on a visit.

Miss Flora McCauley of Lebanon is visiting with Mrs. Charles McDonald for a few days.

Dr. Wigg, the attending physician, reports young Rediniger so far convalescent as to need no further medical attendance; also that the rest of the family are in the best of health and there is no indication of further trouble.

A two-story addition is to be made to the front of the M. E. parsonage, the outside of the church will be painted, and the wood work grained and the walls decorated inside.

Attractions this evening: Drill of Pioneer Engine Company; republican convention; democratic mass meeting and Lyceum entertainment at M. E. church. To-morrow evening: house warming social of Relief Hook and Ladder Company.

ORIGIN OF DECORATION DAY

Decoration day dates back to 1868. The originator of the ceremonies so generally observed on that day was General John A. Logan, at that time commander in chief of the grand army of the republic. Following is the copy of the general orders issued by him designating the 30th day of May for paying honors to the memory of the dead:

HEADQUARTERS GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC, WASHINGTON, D. C., May 5, 1868.—General orders No. 11.—1. The 30th day of May, 1868, is designated for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion, and whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village and hamlet churchyard in the land. In this observance no form of ceremony is prescribed, but posts and comrades will in their own way arrange such fitting services and testimonials of respect as circumstances may permit.

We are organized, comrades, as our regulations tell us, for the purpose among other things of preserving and strengthening those kind and fraternal feelings which have bound together the soldiers, sailors and marines who united to suppress the late rebellion. What can aid more to assure this result than by cherishing tenderly the memory of our heroic dead who made their breasts a barricade between our country and its foes. Their soldier lives were the reveille of freedom to a race in chains and their deaths the tattoo of rebellious tyranny in arms. We should guard their graves with sacred vigilance. All that the consecrated wealth and taste of the nation can add to their adornment and security is but a fitting tribute to the memory of her slain defenders. Let no wanton foot tread rudely on such hallowed grounds. Let pleasant paths invite the coming and going of reverent visitors and fond mourners. Let no vandalism of avarice or neglect, no ravages of time testify to the present or to the coming generations that we have forgotten as a people the cost of a free and undivided republic.

If other eyes grow dull and other hands slack, and other hearts cold in the solemn trust, ours shall keep it well as long as the light and warmth of life remain to us.

Let us then at the time appointed gather around their sacred remains and garland the passionless mounds above them with the choicest flowers of the springtime; let us raise above them the dear old flag they saved from dishonor; let us in this solemn presence renew our pledges to aid and assist those whom they have left among us a sacred charge upon a nation's gratitude, the soldiers' and sailors' widow and orphan.

It is the purpose of the commander in chief to inaugurate this observance with the hope that it will be kept up from year to year while a survivor of the war remains to honor the memory of his departed comrades. He earnestly desires the public press to call attention to this order and lend its friendly aid in bringing it to the notice of comrades in all parts of the country in time for simultaneous compliance therewith.

3. Department commanders will use every effort to make this order effective.

By command of JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commander in Chief.

N. P. CHIPMAN, Adjutant General.

FORTY FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY

SECOND DAY

Monday from 9 to 12 A. M. was given to the examination of classes in Greek, French, Astronomy, English Literature, Latin and English Grammar. These examinations were oral and public, were attended by a number of visitors and were very satisfactory to all concerned. At two P. M. pupils of the conservatory were examined in Counterpoint and ... in Harmony with like results.

In the evening a fair audience assembled in the chapel of the university which had been neatly decorated for the occasion to enjoy the second annual literary entertainment of the Philodorian and [illegible] societies. Although these societies have been organized for a little more than two years they have a good ... working membership, including ... of the best students of the university. The entire programme was rendered in a very creditable manner, showing careful training, and was duly appreciated by the audience. The singing of Miss Hallie Parrish and Mrs. J. W. Langdon and the reading by Miss Birdie De Forest were heartily encored. Miss De Forest has made a fine reputation both as a teacher and ... during the past year. The following is the programme:

THE LOCUSTS IN TENNESSEE

CHATTANOOGA, June 9.—Locusts have appeared on ridges north of the city. The numbers are increasing and all the shrubbery and trees and every green object is covered with them. In some localities they are so numerous that all other sounds are drowned by their noise. To-day they began moving into the valley, and are spreading through the lowland farms. They appeared in this county seventeen years ago and destroyed nearly all vegetation.

TUESDAY, June 9.

At [illegible] last night rain began falling and [illegible] for two hours. About noon to-day it [illegible] passed over. The morning report [illegible] the eastern section noted rain at Umatilla [illegible] with other points reporting cloudy [illegible] fell for about two hours this [illegible] at Willows and points this side.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours: [illegible] ctls wheat, [illegible] ctls oats, 143 ctls bran, 13,470 lbs wool, 37 lbs hides, 130 cs eggs, 14 bxs fruit, 10 pkgs butter. Also 87 ctls wheat, 670 bbls flour, 200 ctls oats, [illegible] ctls barley, 41,307 lbs wool from the eastern section. Wool [illegible] lbs for shipment direct.

FREIGHTS—There have been rumors of new business but details are furnished. The market [illegible] listless with small prospect for early work [illegible] grain freights.

WHEAT—Foreign markets quiet but cargoes firmly held. The resignation of the English [illegible] has not visibly affected the British grain markets, but higher prices in New York and Chicago to-day must be due to this move. No doubt operators imagine they see a chance for speculation. The additional fact that Chicago fell off near the close goes to show that early prices were influenced by news from abroad. As British markets failed to show any improvement the faith of American speculators faltered. It is difficult to see why cabinet changes should disturb wheat values except in the minds of over anxious speculators. San Francisco spot shows a slight advance which lessens an already small trading. Locally there appears to be nothing of interest, the volume of trade being so light as to excite no remark. Shippers are quite out of the market, while millers buy in the interior. The quantity of wheat in sight in the United States and Canada is reported by telegraph to be 3,234,000 bushels, an increase of 650,000 bushels over one week ago.

FLOUR—The market is without quotable change, but shows some signs of dullness, only a local call ruling.

BARLEY—Large receipts noted to-day, the bulk of them being for San Francisco shipment.

OATS—The request, being confined to local needs, is light. A liberal shipping movement continues, but no new purchases for this are reported.

BUTTER—Local sources supply quite all needs and the market is very quiet; best conditioned quoted 18@25c.

EGGS—Receipts show some increase, but values are not disturbed; quote 14c.

CHICKENS—The light request is easily supplied and but few lots of old bring more than [illegible]. Very young are slow of sale.

PROVISIONS—Stocks free and demand light; values [illegible], without change.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 9.—Governments quiet and firm, [illegible] advancing ⅛ in the prices bid. Stocks were again very dull and altogether uninteresting. Throughout the forenoon the market was very steady at small fractions above the opening figures. Midday changes were only ⅛ to ¼ per cent. for the more active stocks. A moderate advance was made after 12 o'clock, which was lost before 2 P. M., and then prices were steady again until shortly before the close, when the whole list weakened and a large portion of the early advance was lost. The break was checked with closing quotations and the market closed barely steady, with prices of the most active stocks about midway between the highest and the lowest quotations of the day. When it is remembered, however, that extreme fluctuations were less than 1 per cent, the insignificance of the changes will be apparent. With sales of only 300 shares, Oregon Railway and Navigation dropped 2 per cent., and on small business Oregon and Transcontinental is down ½ per cent.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, June 9.—As usual to-day and in the absence of any important mails, the market has been very quiet. An auction sale of flannels attracted the undivided attention of representatives of all the markets. The close attention throughout the day of the unusually large number of important dealers is the best evidence of a tone of deep degree of interest. The sale passed off in a fairly satisfactory manner, and though prices realized were not in many instances what they should have been, they might have been worse. [illegible] was very widely distributed.

For Weak Women

Mrs. [illegible] states that the first of September [illegible] was [illegible] with uterine hemorrhage. The [illegible] did not check it and she [illegible] more enfeebled. She was troubled with dyspepsia, ulcers, numbness in the limbs, sickness of the stomach and loss of appetite. I purchased a trial bottle of your Vegetable Compound. She said she could discover a salutary effect from the first dose. Now she is comparatively free from the dyspepsia. Stomach's sickness etc. The hemorrhage is very much better and is less at the regular periods. Her appetite is restored, and her general health and strength are much improved. We feel that we have been wonderfully benefited, and our hearts are drawn out in gratitude to the same and in sympathy for other sufferers, for whose sakes we allow our names to be used." C. W. THE MASONS.

[illegible] of existence. Hence it is that Masons do not regard death with the same shuddering dread that many others do. Immortality, with all its possibilities, [illegible] thoughts of love, and [illegible] beyond the grave [illegible] dispersed all gloom, and we look forward with resignation mingled with delight [illegible] the [illegible] change when

"This mortality shall put on immortality."

[illegible] a lesson for us [illegible] common [illegible] Are these preparations [illegible] of this sublime [illegible] for naught in our lives. [illegible] we have here and [illegible] learn and an experience to [illegible] from what we have seen [illegible] learn the influence of [illegible] in the performance of duty? Behold the [illegible] The memory of our departed brethren [illegible] the green grass returns [illegible] perennially [illegible] grand [illegible] the remembrance of the brethren who when here sustained by their virtues and self sacrificing spirit the principles of Masonry. These departed ones were [illegible] by the craft—not because they were rich or powerful, but because their lives exemplified the moral power of Masonic [illegible], and because they lived as the true disciples [illegible] should ever live. Wise [illegible] in counsel, diligent [illegible] in business [illegible] their relations, and thus [illegible] their memory Masonry honors itself.

Another thought [illegible] brethren. Masonry delights to honor the memory of those brethren [illegible] use their lives were not circumscribed by selfish limitations, [illegible] well spent—to [illegible] and help to humanity. Says Burns:

"Man's inhumanity to man
Makes countless thousands mourn."

And the true Masons seeks to rectify the evils which man causes to his fellow. The life well spent is spent in noble deeds.

He is dead whose hand is not open wide
To help the need of a human brother;
He doubles the strength of his lifelong ride
Who gives his fortunate place to another;
And a thousand million lives are his
Who carries the world in his sympathies.
To deny
Is to die.

Let us rejoice to-night at this testimony to the influence of lives pure and good, and encouraged by the example of those who are honored to-night, let us strive to imitate their virtues and perform our own life work so as to be worthy of remembrance when we too shall have departed [illegible]. And [illegible] let it be remembered [illegible] the humble [illegible] as well as the high station, never forgotten. The sweetest influences of purity and goodness [illegible] left their impress on [illegible] from whom they come—and to-night with uncovered head we drop a tear to the memory of every Mason—be he high or low—who has walked [illegible] becomes a follower of truth.

So let us live then—
That when thy summons comes to join the innumerable caravan
That moves to the broad realms of shade,
Thou go not like the quarry-slave at night, scourged to his dungeon,
But sustained and soothed by an unfaltering trust,
Approach thy grave like one
Who wraps the drapery of his couch about him
And lies down to pleasant dreams.

Past Grand Master John McCracken then delivered the following address:

Most Worshipful and Brethren:—We have assembled this evening for the purpose of holding a memorial service in memory of brethren who, while living, were distinguished by their zeal and labors in the cause of Masonry, and held with [illegible] positions in this grand lodge. Masonry not only honors deserving men in their life, but at their death remembers their virtues, and in doing so honors their memories.

This is a solemn ceremonial, and not an empty pageant or vain show. These solemn rites of mourning are in testimony of affectionate remembrance, and to commemorate the good deeds and honorable actions of our lamented brethren who have retired from the field of labor in the lodge and in this world to find peace and rest in the spiritual world above. While this grand lodge has convened, a lodge of sorrow to perform a duty we owe to our departed brethren, this [illegible] does not concern them [illegible]. We are [illegible] sympathetic. We are not [illegible] concerned spectators in the presence of great [illegible] great sorrow. The pains and joys of others often times seem so interwoven with our own that we cannot separate one from the other.

Memorial day was instituted originally by the surviving soldiers of the late war. Those who had fought and bled and suffered the hardships of soldier life together desired to perpetuate the remembrance of their fallen comrades by meeting on a day appointed, and with solemn ceremonies decorating the graves of the departed with fresh flowers, whose perfume, like incense, is borne heavenward where the spirits of the [illegible] had gone before. How full of poetic beauty is the act. The whole people caught the inspiration and join in the tribute of affection, and [illegible] year on each recurring Memorial day lay their votive offerings of affection and remembrance [illegible] the graves of their loved ones who have passed away and commune with the spirits of their dead. And all [illegible] work [illegible] better [illegible].

Likewise dear friends we assemble [illegible] alone for whose memories this [illegible] has been specially convened. Others also [illegible] denied remembrance. To each one of us this ceremonial recalls the memory of some one much loved whom we shall see no more in this world. Out of the dust and ashes of the past memory at this moment [illegible] lifts for us the [illegible] that affection [illegible] hallowed and sanctified. We see now the faces that we have loved. We can never forget those who were dear to us and have died. We think of their sayings, of their tears and smiles and glad and laughing words, and of their looks and ways as we conversed with the living and [illegible] or merry with them. How often the word lightly spoken in our hearing are unto us like ministers unto other words uttered years and years ago. How often the voices of the living are unto us the voices of the long buried dead. [illegible] or any other [illegible] of sorrow must [illegible] to every mind [illegible] who hears the [illegible] this sad ceremonial of mourning, for all of us have [illegible] or oftener lamented and mourned in our anguish for our loved ones taken from us.

There is something very grateful in cherishing the memory and honor of the worthy departed. It [illegible] gentle and inspiring influence on our minds and hearts, and keeps our feelings and friendships and recollections of our dead so fresh within us as in some way to make us feel they have not gone from us. And although they have passed from our sight and no longer greet us in the daily walks of life, we still speak of them as our own separated from us only for a season, and bringing heaven nearer to us by reason that they are there. Each one who has passed from our midst, has but severed one of the chords that bind us to earth to form a new link in that bright chain of faith and love which is day by day drawing us closer to infinite rest and infinite joy.

It is not my intention to-night to speak of the life of any one or more of our departed brethren whose names appear enshrouded with these mourning emblems.

They were laborers and leaders among the craft. All had worked—some more and some less faithfully and effectually—each according to his lights and means and energies and opportunities. Therefore we love and honor in greater or less degree the memories of all. Their virtues and good deeds those who knew them will not forget, and over their faults and errors we have thrown the veil of masonic charity and hid them from our sight. They will work with us no more in this earthly lodge. They have gone up higher. The heavenly chart has been still farther unrolled before them. Ascending by degrees magnificent, they have reached another and far brighter and more glorious existence.

If man is indeed immortal the life that is continued beyond the grave must be progressive. It cannot fall into a lower state; it must ascend to a higher. And in the same degree it must be more real, less obscure and mysterious, and in the clearer consciousness of its own nature and destiny. If man is immortal—if not, what then? Our existence will end here. Our hopes and our joys are all confined to this little measure. The links falsehood hath broken will unite no more. The deep yearning love that hath not found its like in the cold world must waste in tears. Truth and fervor and devotedness, finding no worthy altar, must return and die of their own fullness. If beyond the grave there is no heaven, in whose wide air the spirit may find room, and in the love of whose bright habitants the lavish heart may spend itself, what thrice mocked fools are we? Oh there are better hopes than these. The [illegible] life hereafter is impressed on man at his birth; it grows with his growth and is strengthened with his strength. The world in which he lives and moves and has his being is the type of the world to come. To the untutored savage the belief is given that there lies

"Behind the cloud topped hill some humble heaven,
Some safer world in depth of woods embraced,
Some happier island in the watery waste,
And thinks that all admitted to that equal sky
His faithful dog shall bear him company."

The mother as she presses her dying infant to her breast in one long agonizing embrace, will not be divested of the belief that she will see her child again, and that it will be her babe still. And so father, mother, sister, brother, husband or wife doubt not that they will meet again in the same sweet relation in which they were separated here. What unutterable consolation to the bereaved heart in the thought—

That we shall know each other's forms hereafter
And in the bright fields of the better land
Call the lost dead to us.

Following the course of nature it is the teaching of Masonry not less than of religion, it is the teaching of all true spiritual philosophy—that the "patterns" of earthly things are in the heavens. In our lodges at every advancing step this sublime truth is symbolized. Without belief in the immortality of the soul our Masonic instruction would be for naught. It is the foundation stone upon which the whole fabric of speculative Masonry rests. Remove it and the structure falls to ruin.

We stand here amid funereal emblems. Around us are draped escutcheons. In sorrow we are met to mourn, but not hopelessly. We know that our departed brethren and friends [illegible] through [illegible] presence during the night of the grave.

"I have still our brethren and friends [illegible]
There is no death." An angel form
Walks o'er the earth with silent tread,
And bears our best loved ones away,
And then we call them dead.

And thus shall we pass away, each fleeting hour brings us nearer to the grave. And we can only ask ourselves the question, Have we endeavored so to live and act as to be deserving of a tribute from our brethren when we shall have crossed the river? Have we practiced the great lessons masonry teaches? If so, then shall we indeed have lived to some purpose, and our memories will be enshrined in the hearts of our brethren that live after us, as we remember those now passed away—"[illegible] but not forgotten."

Past G. M. James E. Raynes, an aged and venerable Mason, who [illegible] present at every grand gathering of Masons and has been for many years, then spoke [illegible] in a[illegible] manner of the names that were arranged around the catafalque and of the time that would soon come when he too would be with them.

Hon. Binger Hermann, past grand orator, spoke in an eloquent manner of the virtues of many distinguished Masons, paying a glowing tribute to Washington, to whom every American Mason [illegible].

George H. Chance followed with a few impressive remarks on death and the resurrection.

[illegible] grand chaplain, closed the [illegible] appropriate remarks [illegible].

PASTICCIO

[illegible]

[illegible]
Merry June again [illegible]

And [illegible] customary [illegible] here:
Now we leave the city [illegible]
For some [illegible]
Where [illegible]

Soon [illegible] to the shore
Where the angry breakers roar,
And [illegible]
In the waves we'll soak our feet,
And [illegible] will maidens sweet
[illegible]

THIS AND THAT

The elements are entirely too coquettish. Here lightning has struck the Washington monument when hundreds of office seekers were not only willing, but eager to be singled out.

Miss Cleveland's book is a failure. It neglects to throw any light upon the great American problem, "How can all the offices be given to democrats without straining the civil service rules?"

Now that the Iowa editors are away from home it is thought that prohibition can be enforced.

It is reported that the Hessian fly has struck Kansas. The good people of that state are of the opinion that a very "fly" Hessian in the person of St. John has been with them for several years.

Alas, for Gladstone! Well, the "grand old man" is not the first who has come to grief through alcohol, but it is severe that a man should suffer for trying to put beer up when old England is putting so much of it down.

[illegible] MAIDEN

Maiden with the dark brown hair
With the drooping eyelids fair,
Let me learn in that bright eye
Thy capacity for pie.

Is there aught in that deep blush
Lovelier than Phœbus' flush
That would make a fellow dream
Of thy passion for ice-cream.

Is it safe with fifty cents
To invite thy presence hence
To a strawberry saloon
And to trust thee with a spoon?

Maiden fair, at all events
Speak and end this dread suspense.

AN UNFORTUNATE REMINISCENCE

Harry Smithers called at the Arkins mansion on Seventh street last night, and during the conversation Miss Arkins, who isn't so young this summer as she was last, remarked:

"Isn't it strange, Mr. Smithers, how certain half-forgotten sounds, when suddenly heard, carry us back to the past? The wind sighing among the trees, a mysterious chord carelessly struck upon the piano, or some deep discord in nature, frequently brings to my memory, absolutely without train of thought, incidents and scenes in my early life that hitherto had been forgotten."

"What you say is quite true," replied young Smithers, "and has frequently suggested itself to my mind."

"Ah, there is a banjo," continued Miss Arkins. "Its familiar tones remind me of the bright days of my childhood, in our old southern home, before the cruel wa—"

Then a steely glitter crept into her eye, but it was too late. The young man's suspicions had been confirmed, and another fish was making for deep water with a book in his gills.
